

An impressionistic painting of a still life scene. In the center, a clear glass vase holds a bouquet of flowers, including a prominent pink tulip and some white flowers. To the right, a woven basket is filled with more flowers, including a pink one. In the foreground, a small, round, teal-colored clock with a white face and black hands sits on a wooden stand. The background is a soft, hazy mix of colors, suggesting a window or a wall. The overall style is loose and expressive, with visible brushstrokes and a rich, textured surface.

Introduction

Time For Change bursts onto the art scene, offering a fresh and liberating perspective. A guest exhibition of paintings, sculpture, ceramics, jewellery, glass and original prints by well-known artists working in Cornwall runs at Yew Tree Gallery in Keigwin through April.

The exhibition sees artists exploring 'change' in all its meanings: in the use of materials and styles and in the seasons, environment and politics. It is the first collaboration from West Cornwall Creatives, a collective of over 40 artists that came into being to support the campaigning funds of St Ives Liberal Democrats, with a sense that politically, socially and environmentally it was a Time For Change.

Lizzie Black

Garden Studies and Interiors

Lizzie Black lives and works in Mousehole, Cornwall. She is a plein air painter enjoying the immediacy of painting in the landscape and responding to her surroundings. As an artist who paints every day the long dark winter followed by the restrictions of lock down has drawn her creative practice closer to home.

Lizzie collects flowers from her family garden and the surrounding cliff walks and paths creating compositions at home. She jokes: 'Rather than being presented with a harbour full of moored boats that I can't physically move I can choreograph my own scene and by moving the bottles and vessels that I paint.' This has turned out to play a large part of the whole creative process.

In her domestic surroundings she has become acquainted with her collections of flowers and favourite collected bottles and jugs. Painting these studies has become a place of refuge in the day and a reason to celebrate life. The light reflecting from a neighbouring jug or even the warmth of a shadow from a flower onto a surface are explored with equal curiosity and interest.

Lizzie Black had a formal art training at Falmouth School of Art and Bower Ashton School of Art in Bristol. A lot of her skills and learning came from her father the artist Bernard Evans enabling to develop her own style and artistic journey. She exhibits across the West Country and has exhibited with the Royal Institute of Oil Painters at the Mall Galleries in London for the past three years.

SALLY HOLMAN Paintings
Fresh with the promise of Spring are the paintings of SALLY HOLMAN – delicate mixed media still life studies of the first blooms of the year, evening scenes of the brooding moors of West Penwith, light-filled collage sketches of Tuscan landscapes and vibrant oils of sun-filled interiors.
After an idyllic childhood in St Ives – spent mainly outdoors, Sally's initial art training was at St Martin's School of Art in 1998. However, greater understanding about 'art' and the skill of drawing was derived from 5 years working at the Richard Demarco Gallery in Edinburgh where international exhibitions of contemporary artists were held during the Festival. Her conceptual skills led her to stage exhibitions abroad and finally to work at MOMA in Oxford. A return to St Ives with her children in 2002 led her back to her own painting. Following a 2-year course at the School of Painting, Sally has subsequently devoted much of her time to a deeper involvement with the landscape – attracted by 'the poetry of place – the light, the colour, the mood,' and equally to flowers and interiors. She has shown at The New Craftsmen, St Ives among other galleries.
